Short-Row Colourwork

lecture outline

Since publishing my 'Elemental' collection in 2017, I've been developing my own approach to short-row colourwork, refining the details and methods, and adapting it's uses.

Now a fully fledged technique, with a first-of-its-kind book available from Sixth&Spring books - "Short-Row Colorwork – The Definitive Step-by-Step Guide" - you can learn how this new colorwork method works, understand it's key skills and principles, and explore for yourself how to create dynamic, attention-grabbing knitting!

In this talk I will guide you through the technique, outlining it's primary methods and uses, with reference to the chapters within the book so that you can read further in your own time. I will explain how I developed this technique, what makes it so unique, and why it differs from existing colourwork methods.

Colorwork is always a hit among knitters, and this new way to learn and use short-row colorwork knitting will draw the attention of knitters and designers alike.

Lecture structure
This is a 1.5hr lecture. I will talk through a slide-show that outlines my development of the technique, explains how the maps (charts) work, and how the short rows define the colourwork. I will also discuss the different types of motifs and their applications. I will then take questions from participants.

Handouts
Workshop notes covering all of the techniques, photo tutorials where applicable, will be provided.
